MAIN FEATURES

Suburban Population Change

- Gagebrook recorded by far the most significant population increase of Hobart suburbs in the period 30 June 1981 to 30 June 1986. Its population grew by 1 618 persons or 90.8%.
- Of the established suburbs, major population changes in the five year period 1981–1986 were:
 - (i) population increase —

Kingston	29.0%	(1 334)
Blackmans Bay	26.4%	(1 042)
Sorell–Midway Point	13.3%	(338)
 - (ii) population decrease —

Tranmere	-10.6%	(-110)
Risdon Vale	-9.9%	(-406)
Hobart	-9.6%	(-160)
- Population change over the 15 year period 1971–1986 revealed the following major changes in suburban populations:
 - (i) population increase —

Bridgewater	1294%	(4 878)
Rokeby	480%	(2 978)
Blackmans Bay	206%	(3 361)

N.B. Gagebrook and Clarendon Vale did not exist in 1971 and the large percentage increases highlighted above result from relatively small 1971 populations —
Bridgewater 377; Rokeby 621; and Blackmans Bay 1630
 - (ii) population decrease in percentage terms —

Derwent Park	-41.1%	(-578)
Warrane	-34.4%	(-256)

 - (iii) population decrease in absolute terms —

West Hobart–Mt Stuart	-1 576	(-14.8%)
Risdon Vale	-1 513	(-29.0%)
Berriedale–Chigwell	-1 373	(-23.8%)
- Inner city suburbs, Hobart, North Hobart, Battery Point and West Hobart–Mt Stuart have recorded a decline in population at every census since 1971. South Hobart was also displaying this trend until the 1986 Census where the population stabilized at the 1981 level.

EXPLANATORY NOTES

1. Introduction

This publication gives details of the population and dwellings in Hobart suburbs from the Census of Population and Housing conducted on 30 June 1986.

2. Scope and coverage

The 1986 Census of Population and Housing aimed at counting every person who spent census night, 30 June 1986, in Australia, including persons on vessels in or between Australian ports or on board long-distance trains, buses or aircraft. All private dwellings were counted whether occupied or unoccupied. Occupied non-private dwellings such as hospitals, prisons, hotels etc, were also included. People were counted where they were on census night, which may not have been where they usually lived. Visitors to Australia were enumerated regardless of how long ago they had arrived or how long they planned to stay. Australian residents out of the country on census night were excluded from the count.

Diplomatic personnel and their families are out of the scope of the census, as are diplomatic residences.

3. Definitions

Census Count — Place of Enumeration

Persons were counted where they were actually located on census night. Overseas visitors are included and Australians overseas are excluded. No adjustment is made for census underenumeration.

Census Count — Place of Usual Residence

Persons were counted according to their stated place of usual residence. Overseas visitors and Australians overseas are excluded, and no adjustment is made for census underenumeration. Statistics on a place of usual residence basis are not included in this publication.

Estimated Resident Population (ERP)

These estimates are formed by adding estimates of Australians overseas, and of the census undercount, to the census count at place of usual residence. The ERP at census date is updated between population censuses. ERP statistics are not included in this publication.

Occupied Private Dwelling: is normally a house, flat, part of a house, or even a room (but can also be a house above shops or offices, a boat, or a tent or caravan if it is standing on its own block of land) occupied by a person or group of persons living and eating together as a domestic unit. It excludes establishments such as hotels, motels, boarding houses and caravans in caravan parks etc.

Unoccupied Private Dwelling: is a structure built specifically for living purposes, which is habitable, but unoccupied at the time of the census. Vacant tents, garages and caravans (if not normally occupied) are excluded.

4. The statistics in this publication are based on the census count at the place of enumeration. Population estimates will be released when full Census 86 statistical data for Australia are available later in 1987.

5. Hobart Suburbs

There are no official Hobart suburban boundaries, nor, in some instances, official recognition of particular suburbs. In determining suburban boundaries for the purposes of this publication the ABS referred to local government authorities and the Hobart Atlas published by the Tasmanian Lands Department. Suburbs were then defined by combining census collection districts (CDs). A CD is the smallest geographic unit used to classify census data and hence suburban boundaries to some extent have been governed by the CD boundaries. The Suburbs so defined may not conform to boundaries recognised by other bodies and users. The map attached to this publication shows the boundaries used.

6. Data quality

Statistical collections such as the census are subject to a number of sources of error. While some errors (such as deliberate misreporting) defy detection and correction procedures, the number of errors in overall census results is expected to be generally insignificant. Information on data quality will be released from late 1987.

Main sources of error in the census are:

- (a) Underenumeration. Despite efforts to obtain full coverage of persons and dwellings (other than those associated with overseas diplomatic missions), some undercounting still occurs. A measure of the extent of underenumeration is obtained from a small survey of households undertaken very shortly after the census. While results from this source for the 1986 Census are not yet available undercounting of persons in the 1981 Census was estimated to be 1.9 per cent for Australia as a whole.
- (b) Partial response. In those instances where the householder omitted to provide a response to a question a 'not stated' code was allocated; with the exception of non-response to age, sex and marital status, and Statistical Local Area of usual residence. These variables were imputed using other information on the census form, and specially constructed random tables.
- (c) Respondent error. Computer editing procedures are used to detect obvious errors made by individuals in completing the form (for example, a six year old male who was married). Such procedures cannot detect all respondent errors and some remain in final output.
- (d) Processing error. Errors created during the processing of the census are kept at an acceptable level by means of a quality control system, which involves sample checking at different stages of the coding and keying operations, and taking corrective action where necessary.

- (e) Introduced random adjustments. Adjustments are made to table cells to allow the maximum of detailed census data to be released, while protecting the confidentiality of information about individual persons. For this reason, and since possible respondent and processing errors have greatest relative impact on small cells, no reliance should be placed on cells of three or less.

7. Further Information

The ABS has produced a number of information papers which explain all aspects of the conduct, processing and output available from Census 86. Details of standard output products to be released from the census are contained in Census 86 — Data Release Plans (2173.0). Details of tabulations are contained in the Catalogue of 1986 Census Tables (2175.0). The 1986 Census Dictionary (2174.0) contains definitions of terms and explains concepts in the collection, processing and output phases of the census.

The ABS released Characteristics of the Population and Dwellings in Local Government Areas, Tasmania (2401.6) in August 1987.

Related publications containing a similar range of data to that contained in this publication will be released for Launceston Suburbs (2202.6) and for Burnie, Devonport and Surrounding Areas (2203.6).

Current publications produced by the ABS are listed in the Catalogue of Publications, Australia (1101.0) available from any ABS office.

8. Symbols and other usages

The following symbols, where used, mean:

..	not applicable
—	nil or randomised to zero
M	males
F	females
P	persons

Discrepancies may occur between sums of the component items and totals due to the introduction of random adjustments of small cells.
