PREFACE

National Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Survey 1994: Regional Statistics, is a series of 36 publications which present a summary of the results from the 1994 National Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Survey. A Regional Statistics publication has been produced for each of the ATSiC Regions and the Torres Strait Area. These publications do not present community level statistics; such statistics are available from the Census of Population and Housing.

The 1994 National Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Survey provides a wealth of information about the social, economic, and health status of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people. An important use of the statistics from the Survey is to assist Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander organisations and individuals in making their planning decisions.

The Regional Statistics publications result from a joint venture between the Australian Bureau of Statistics and the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Commission.

These publications present summary statistical information in graphical form without explanation. Each publication contains a range of statistics relating to family and culture; health; housing; education and training; employment and income; and law and justice.

The publications in this series are presented in a common format to allow information for different regions to be easily compared.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The success of the 1994 National Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Survey would not have been possible without the contributions of:

- Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people who participated in the final survey and the earlier survey trials;
- Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander interviewers who collected the information throughout Australia;
- members of the Survey Advisory Committee and Technical Reference Groups who provided detailed advice on the survey content and methodology; and
- Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander organisations, Government departments and other organisations which assisted the ABS and advisory groups to design the survey and lay the groundwork for a successful data collection.

CAUTIONS

- Statistics can have a high level of uncertainty due to small sample sizes. This is indicated by asterisk () and must be recognised when interpreting figures and percentages referred to in this publication. The level of uncertainty in statistics can be derived from the standard errors table shown in Appendix C.
- Population projections, based on June 1991 experimental estimates, have been prepared by the ABS for each ATSI region using assumptions agreed to by ATSI. Sampling variation within ATSI regions can result in discrepancies between survey estimates and population projections.
- Statistics based on self-reported information or people's opinions should be interpreted cautiously.

INTRODUCTION

Map 1 Location of Brisbane ATSI Region

Location The Brisbane ATSIC Region covers an area of 23,600 square kilometres in the south-east of Queensland extending inland to the Roma Region and south to the New South Wales border (Coffs Harbour Region).

South East Queensland Indigenous Regional Council The South East Queensland Indigenous Regional Council comprises twenty Regional Councillors elected by the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander voters of the region to look after their interests. These Regional Councillors elect a Commissioner to represent the Queensland Metropolitan Zone on the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Commission.

Main population centres The Brisbane Region has the largest Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander population of the Queensland regions. At the time of the 1991 Census the largest centre of Indigenous population in the region was Ipswich (1,565 people). Other major centres of Indigenous population were Inala (880 people), Woodridge (680 people), Caboolture (580 people), Redcliffe (460 people), Maroochy (440 people) and Kingston (370 people).

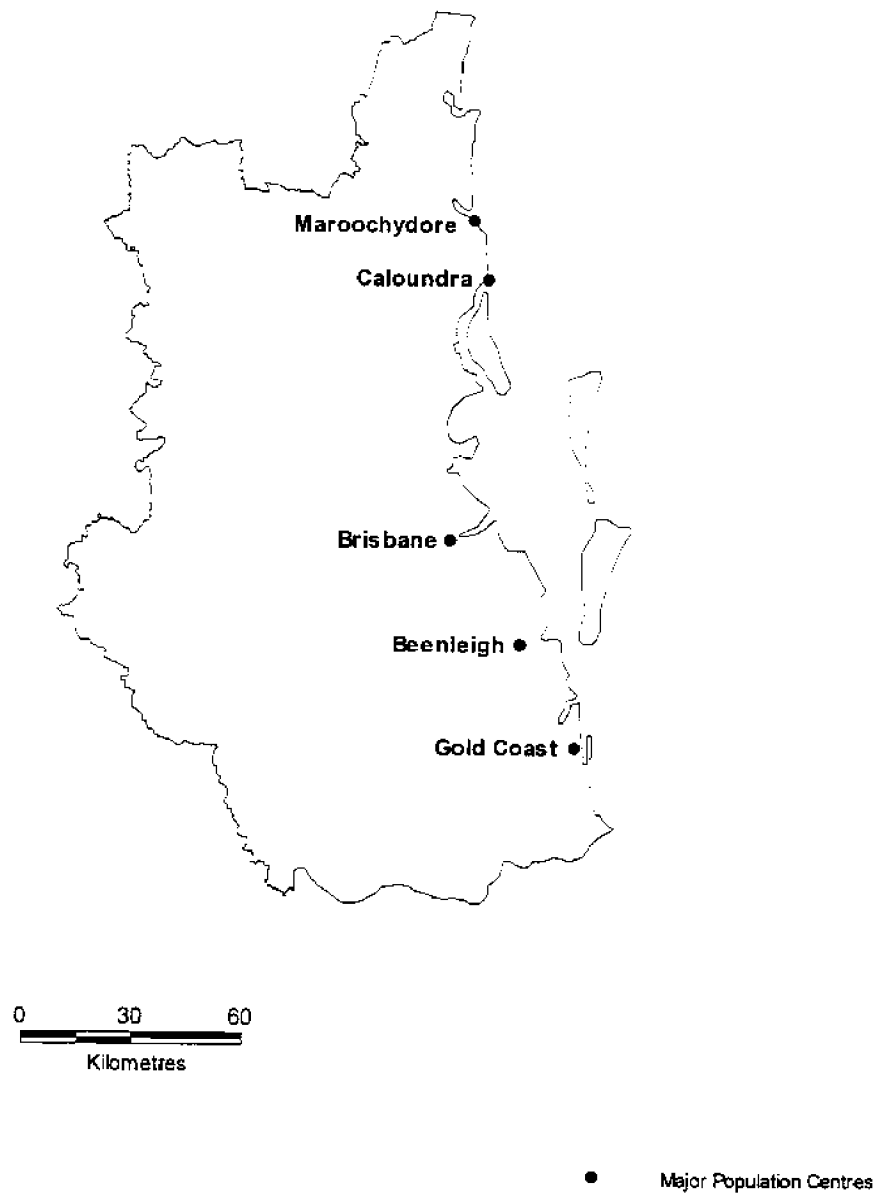

Population growth The Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander population in the region was projected to be some 18,800 people at 30 June 1994. This was an increase of 10.3 per cent on the June 1991 estimate of 17,040 people.

Housing stress

Detailed analysis of the 1991 Census of Population and Housing results for the Brisbane region (Jones, R (1994) The Housing Need of Indigenous Australians, 1991. Canberra: Centre for Aboriginal Economic Policy Research, ANU) concluded that some 50 families were homeless and a further 350 families were in housing stress from overcrowding.

1992 ATSI
Housing and Community Infrastructure
Needs Survey

Another source of information about the condition of community infrastructure in homelands/outstations and other discrete communities is the final report of Stage 1 of the 1992 ATSI Housing and Community Infrastructure Needs Survey.

However, in the Brisbane Region the only population centres identified were located in rural urban centres and the Needs Survey did not collect detailed information about the condition of infrastructure in such centres.

Condition of houses

At the time of the Needs Survey, it was estimated that there were some 70 houses in the Brisbane region owned and/or administered by Indigenous organisations. The condition of these houses was found to be:

- no repairs required (30 houses)
- minor repairs required (10 houses)
- major repairs required (20 houses)
- replacement required (20 houses)

School participation rates

The overall school participation rate was calculated to be slightly less than 75 per cent. For thirteen and fourteen year olds the participation rate was 85 and 100 per cent respectively, while for seventeen year olds the rate had fallen to around 60 per cent.

Characteristics of schooling

Students in the Brisbane region reported that they were:

- taught about Indigenous culture (1,880 students)
- not taught about culture but want to be (3,380 students)
- taught by an Indigenous teacher (60 students)
- taught by an Indigenous education worker (390 students)
- taught by a community member (210 students)
- taught Indigenous languages (30 students)

The 9,720 people aged fifteen years and over who had left school reported that the age they left school was:

- 13 years or less (1,230 people)
- 14 years (1,300 people)
- 15 16 years (5,110 people)
- 17 years or more (2,010 people)

Some 70 people reported that they had never attended school.

Highest level of educational attainment

The highest level of education attained by people aged fifteen years and over who had left school was:

- post-school qualifications (2,780 people)
- year 12 school certificate (1,120 people)
- year 10 school certificate (2,800 people)
- below year 10 education (3,020 people)

Note: Population projections for ATSiC Regions have been prepared by ABS using assumptions agreed to by ATSiC. As these regional projections were prepared at a later date using more up-to-date assumptions than the State population projections presented in this attachment, minor discrepancies can exist between these State totals and the sums of component Regions.

CAUTION: For ATSiC Regions discrepancies may occur between survey estimates and population projections.

Processing error: While such errors can occur in any processing system, careful quality control measures are used to keep errors to an acceptable level.

Random adjustment: Cells containing small values are randomly adjusted to avoid releasing information about particular individuals, families, or households. The effect of random adjustment is statistically insignificant.

Respondent error: Because processing procedures cannot detect or repair all errors made by persons in completing the form, some remain in final data.

Undercount: Although the census aims to count each person once, there are some people who are missed and others are counted more than once. The data are not adjusted for the net undercount which is estimated to be 1.9% for Australia in the 1991 Census.

Further information on data quality will be provided progressively in Census Update and in 1991 Census data quality working papers.

Section of State Data: Data for the Migratory section of each state/territory has been combined with the Other Rural section to avoid the release of confidential data. The number of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people in migratory sections was small.
