About this publication...

This publication contains final census counts for urban centres and localities in Tasmania. The counts are on a place of enumeration basis, which provides a count of people where they were located on census night, 6 August 1991, which may not be where they usually lived.

Scope and coverage...

The 1991 Census of Population and Housing was held on 6 August 1991. The purpose of the census was to count every person who spent census night in Australia. This included people in private dwellings, occupied non-private dwellings, camping out, on vessels in or between Australian ports and on board overnight transport.

People were counted where they were located on census night, which may not have been where they usually lived.

Visitors to Australia were counted regardless of how long they planned to stay. Australian residents out of the country on census night were excluded.

All private dwellings were counted, whether occupied or unoccupied. Occupied non-private dwellings, such as hospitals, gaols, etc. were also counted.

Diplomatic personnel and their families were excluded from the census, as were diplomatic residences.

Introduced random adjustments...

Adjustments are randomly made to table cells to protect the confidentiality of information about individuals. As a result, component cells may not add to their totals. These differences are statistically insignificant and do not impair the usefulness of the tables. Grand totals for areas in each table show true totals.

Census variables in this publication...

Persons

The census counted people where they were located on census night, which may not be where they usually lived.

Families

Families are groups of related individuals where at least one person is aged 15 years or over. The term related includes related by birth and by the formation of a marriage or marriage-like relationship.

Dwellings

Dwellings are buildings or structures in which people live. A private dwelling is normally a house, flat, part of a house, or even a room; but can also be a house attached to, or rooms above, shops or offices; an occupied caravan in a caravan park or boat in a marina; a houseboat; or a tent if it is standing on its own block of land. A caravan situated on a residential allotment is also classed as a private dwelling.

Full definitions of all Census variables can be found in the 1991 Census Dictionary (2901.0)

Urban centres and localities...

The Australian Bureau of Statistics defines an urban centre as a population cluster of 1000 or more people and a locality as a population cluster of between 200 and 999 people. Urban centres/localities are delimited using the Linge criteria, which contain rules for contiguous urban geography in accordance with standard ABS concepts.

Because of their nature urban centres/localities can, and sometimes do, straddle SLA, legal LGA, statistical subdivision and other census geographic area boundaries.

The location of each urban centre/locality is shown on the map on page 28.

The Appendix on page 54 shows which 1991 CDs comprise each urban centre and locality.

Other 1991 Census products and services...

This publication is the sixth in a series focussing on Tasmanian geographic areas and containing a range of data from the 1991 Census. Others in the series are: Local Government Areas: Tasmania (2790.6), Hobart Suburbs (2791.6), Launceston Suburbs (2792.6) Burnie and Devonport Suburbs (2793.6) and Restructured Local Government Areas: Tasmania (2795.6).

Other data from the 1991 Census is published in a range of publications including Census Counts for Small Areas (2730.6), Census Characteristics for Tasmania (2710.6), thematic reports and social atlases. Products are available on floppy disc, microfiche, and CD-ROM.

For detailed explanations of data, census concepts, terminology, variables and classifications refer to the 1991 Census Dictionary (2901.0) and the 1991 Census Directory of Classifications (2904.0).

1991 Census - A Guide to Products and Services (2910.0) provides details on national products and services. Census Update, a quarterly newsletter, will keep you up to date with developments in all census products and services. It highlights recent and forthcoming releases and contains regular features on census data usage.
