Profiling Your Community

The Community Profile Series provides you with comprehensive statistical pictures of a selected area. The series allows you to investigate a diverse range of information from the 2006 Census, covering most topics on the Census form. The profiles provide information on key Census characteristics relating to persons, families and dwellings.

There are six separate profiles in the series: Basic Community Profile; Place of Enumeration Profile; Indigenous Profile; Time Series Profile; Expanded Community Profile; and Working Population Profile.

Who would benefit from using the Community Profile Series?

The Community Profile Series product is aimed at all users who are interested in demographic information for a particular geographic area.

Which Geographic Areas are Community Profiles available for?

The Community Profile Series is available for both large and small areas. Some specific geography levels are only available for certain profiles. Take a look at the product briefs available on the ABS website at www.abs.gov.au/census.

What format are Community Profiles in?

Community Profiles are downloadable for free from the ABS website www.abs.gov.au/census in Excel spreadsheet format. They are also available through the ABS Information Consultancy Service in Comma Separated Variable (CSV) and XML formats. Please note that a charge may apply for data obtained via Information Consultancy.

If you require data for a large number of areas it is recommended that you contact an ABS Information Consultant who can advise you of an appropriate product and any applicable charges.
