Introduction

The National Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Social Survey (NATSISS) was conducted from August 2008 to April 2009, and aims to provide a broad social picture of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples. This booklet has been prepared so that you can conveniently and quickly access key findings from the survey for Tasmania.

The NATSISS was first conducted in 1994, then again in 2002, collecting information from Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people, aged 15 years or older. The 2008 NATSISS also collected information about children aged 14 years or under.

THE ABS SAYS THANKS

The success of the 2008 NATSISS was dependent on the very high level of cooperation received from Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people and their communities. Without this cooperation, the range of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander statistics published by the ABS would not be possible.

Information received by the ABS is treated in strict confidence as required by the Census and Statistics Act 1905.

Population

In 2008, there were around 19,100 Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people across Tasmania.

Of all Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people in Tasmania in 2008:

- 86% identified as Aboriginal only.
- 14% identified as being of Torres Strait Islander origin, or of both Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander origin.

WHERE PEOPLE LIVE

In 2008, 4% of the total Australian Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander population lived in Tasmania.

Population

AGE

The Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander population in Tasmania is much younger than the rest of the Tasmanian population.

Of the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander population in Tasmania in 2006:

- Over half (58%) were aged 24 years or younger, compared with 32% of the non-Indigenous population.
- About 21% were aged 15 to 24 years (young adults).
- 37% were aged 14 years or younger (children).

Note: The data presented in this section are 2006 figures. (See 'ABS data sources' for further details.)

Culture

IDENTIFYING WITH ABORIGINAL AND TORRES STRAIT ISLANDER CULTURES

In Tasmania, 37% of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander adults identified with a cultural group, such as a clan, tribal or language group.

17% of adults were living on their homelands in 2008. A further 29% recognised an area as their homeland but did not live there.

31% of adults were involved in a cultural event, ceremony or organisation in the year before the 2008 survey.

Note: 'Adults' refers to people aged 15 years or older.

Health

FEELING HEALTHY

Of all Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander adults in Tasmania in 2008:

- 53% rated their health as being excellent or very good.
- 23% rated their health as good.
- 24% rated their health as fair or poor.

Younger adults were more likely to rate their health as excellent or very good compared with adults in older age groups.

Note: 'Adults' refers to people aged 15 years or older.

Health

SMOKING

More Indigenous adults said they had quit smoking in 2008 than in 2002.

Of all Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander adults in Tasmania in 2008:

- 44% identified themselves as current smokers.
- 23% said they were ex-smokers.
- Over three in ten (32%) had never smoked.

(b) Includes people who never attended school.

Note: 'Adults' refers to people aged 15 years or older.

Education

HAVING A QUALIFICATION

In 2008, 36% of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander adults in Tasmania had a non-school qualification.

Adults with a non-school qualification(a), 2008

(a) Non-school qualifications are awarded for finishing courses outside of those taken at Primary or High School (e.g. qualifications awarded through University studies, and TAFE training courses).

Labour force

BEING IN THE LABOUR FORCE

Adults in the 'labour force' are those who are currently working (employed) or who are looking for work (unemployed). Adults who are not currently working and are not looking for work are classified as 'not in the labour force'.

Of all Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander adults in Tasmania in 2008:

- More than six in ten (64%) were in the labour force.
- Over half (57%) were employed.
- 7% were unemployed.

Note: 'Adults' refers to people aged 15 years or older.

Housing

RENTING OR OWNING

Of all Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander adults in Tasmania in 2008:

- Over four in ten (42%) lived in homes that were being rented.
- Over half (52%) lived in homes that were either owned or being purchased.

OVERCROWDING

In 2008, about 8% of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander adults in Tasmania were living in a home that was overcrowded.

STANDARD OF HOUSING

In 2008, 23% of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander adults in Tasmania were living in homes with major structural problems. Major structural problems refer to problems such as large cracks in the walls or floor or serious problems with plumbing.

Note: 'Adults' refers to people aged 15 years or older.

Family & Support Networks

Many Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander adults in Tasmania have good family and support networks. For example, over nine in ten adults (94%) said they would be able to get help, such as emotional support, money or food, from someone who did not live with them.

REMOVAL

The NATSISS asked Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander adults in Tasmania whether they or any of their relatives had been removed from their natural families for welfare reasons or because of government policy, or if they had been taken to a mission.

In Tasmania in 2008:

- 7% of adults reported that they had been removed from their natural family.
- 23% of adults reported that they had relatives who were removed from their natural family.

Note: 'Adults' refers to people aged 15 years or older.

Children

CULTURE

Of all Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander children in Tasmania in 2008:

- 62% reported that they were involved in Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander cultural events, ceremonies or organisations in the year before the 2008 survey.
- Over half (56%) were being taught about Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander culture at school.

EXERCISE

In 2008, eight in ten (80%) Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander children in Tasmania exercised for at least 60 minutes everyday.

More boys than girls said they exercised everyday (85% of boys and 75% of girls).

Note: 'Children' refers to people aged 4 to 14 years.

Explanatory Notes and Glossary

Adults

In this publication 'adults' refer to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people aged 15 years or older.

Children

In this publication 'children' refer to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people aged 4 to 14 years.

Labour force

The 'labour force' includes people aged 15 years or older, who are either currently working or who are looking for work (employed or unemployed).

Adults who are not currently working and are not looking for work are classified as not being in the labour force.

An employed person is someone who:

- is 15 years or older,
- is currently working in a job or business, or working for Community Development Employment Projects (CDEP), or who undertakes work without pay in a family business, and
- worked at least one hour in the week prior to interview.

An unemployed person is someone who:

- is not currently working,
- has been looking for work in the four weeks before the survey was conducted, and
- was available to start work during the week before answering the survey.

People were not counted as unemployed if they were not currently working because they were retired, they were unable to work on a permanent basis, or if they intended never to work.

Explanatory Notes and Glossary

Overcrowding

To measure overcrowding the ABS uses the Canadian National Occupancy Standard for Housing Appropriateness. The following criteria are used to assess overcrowding:

- there should be no more than two persons per bedroom,
- a household of one unattached individual may reasonably occupy a bed-sit (i.e. have no bedroom),
- couples and parents should have a separate bedroom,
- children aged 5 years or over, of different sexes, should not share a bedroom,
- children aged less than 18 years and of the same sex may reasonably share a bedroom, and
- single household members aged 18 years or over should have a separate bedroom.

Homes that require at least one additional bedroom are considered to be overcrowded.

Removal from natural family

Removal from natural family in this survey includes the removal of the person or their relatives, as a child, from their family as part of government policy. It does not include those who were removed from their family for a period of less than six months and those who had been separated from their family for other reasons such as family break-up or traditional adoption.
