The Socio-Economic Indexes for Areas 2001 (SEIFA 2001) is a product developed especially for those interested in the assessment of the welfare of Australian communities. The ABS has developed indexes to allow ranking of regions/areas, providing a method of determining the level of social and economic well-being in that region.

The 4 indexes are;

- Index of Advantage\Disadvantage - A new index, and is a continuum of advantage to disadvantage. Low values indicate areas of disadvantage; and high values indicate areas of advantage.
- Index of Disadvantage - focuses on low-income earners, relatively lower educational attainment, high unemployment, rented dwellings and people lacking fluency in English.
- Index of Economic Resources - This index includes variables that are associated with economic resources. Variables include rent paid, income by family type, mortgage payments and rental properties.
- Index of Education and Occupation - This index includes all education and occupation variables only.

These indexes show where affluent (as opposed to just high income earning) live; where disadvantaged (as opposed to the unemployed) live: and where the highly skilled and educated (as opposed to the tertiary educated people) live.

For further information on the 4 indexes, derived from the 2001 Census of Population and Housing, please refer to the information paper entitled, '2039.0 Socio-Economic Indexes for Areas'.
